BRIEF:

This amendment fixes a deficiency in the code which does not allow for the code to be enforce requirements for single-family and two-family homes when the standards within these sections are altered on an already existing structure.

This issue was brought up in the Town when a resident proposed to install a corrugated metal roof on their home, which is not allowed for new homes. Upon further review of the code by the consultant, Mark Roffers, it was determined that the requirements listed for single family detached residence and two-family residence only pertain to new construction. These updates will not pertain when someone drastically updates their home and/or when they are modifying any of the elements listed in the performance standards.
